

THE BEST KITCHEN PAINT COLORS, ACCORDING TO TOP DESIGNERS

See these gorgeous designer-approved picks before you commit to a shade.

BY ELLE DECOR EDITORS AUG 19, 2019

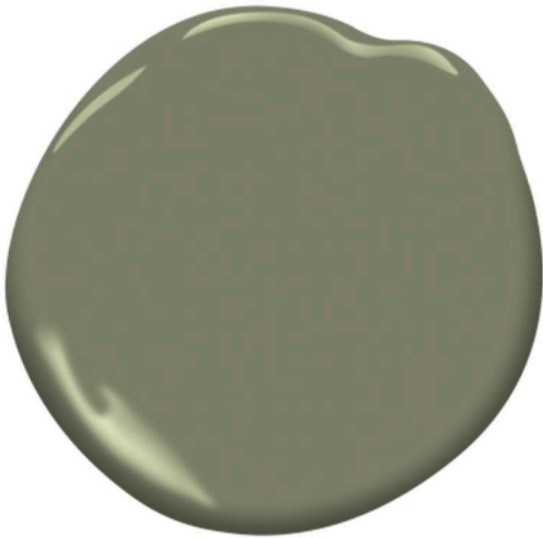

Aaron Leitz Photography; Design by Alison Pickart

Choosing the right shade of paint for your home isn't an easy task, but it's worth the effort since a simple color change can transform a room. A gorgeous gray, for instance, can turn an interior from dreary to sophisticated. The perfect red hue, meanwhile, can take it from lackluster to dramatic in an instant.

But before you start shopping, keep in mind that there are a slew of factors to consider when searching for the best paint color for a project. Beyond finding a hue that works in harmony with the rest of your home, you need to consider lighting—both natural and artificial—and how it can alter the appearance of a shade. And don't forget the impact different finishes, like semi-gloss or eggshell, can have on the overall look of a paint color.

If you're in need of inspiration to revamp your kitchen with a stunning paint color, consider this list of go-to shades from some of our favorite interior designers.

BENJAMIN MOORE GALÁPAGOS GREEN 475

"Galápagos Green is a decadently rich deep green. It is elevated and perfect for added drama to butlers pantry's or powder rooms." — Alison Pickart

SHOP NOW

FARROW & BALL PEGNOIR NO. 286

"Pegnoir is a beautiful soft lavender with a base of gray. It is a fun unexpected color for the kitchen, and a modern twist to basic gray." — Alison Pickart

SHOP NOW

Farrow & Ball

FARROW & BALL ALL WHITE NO. 2005

"All White is the perfect creamy white for a classic kitchen! Works well with both warm and cool tones and isn't too 'bright' when looking for a white for your cabinets that works well with the ever popular Carrara and Calacatta marble countertops!" — Alison Pickart

SHOP NOW